Twelve Ornamental Shrubs
To Flood Your Garden With Beauty

READ THE DESCRIPTIONS OF THIS COLORFUL COLLECTION OF SHRUBS

MAHONIA AQUIFOLIUM

This shrub is literally a magician in its many changes. In the Spring it's covered with showy, brilliant yellow flowers. These are followed by big purplish-blue berries. In the Fall its glossy, dark green, holly-like leaves change to a magnificent bronze. Thrives in any location.

VIBURNUM ROBUSTUM

Here's a shrub you'll want for its dainty fragrance as well as its delicate beauty. In the Spring it's literally covered with fluffy clouds of scented, white blooms which later change into colorful blue-black berries. This lovely graciously serves as a specimen, shrub border or for foundation planting.

ABELIA EDWARD GOUCHER

Hardy yet delicately beautiful, this hybrid covers its arching stems, most of the year, with lovely rich pink flowers. Add to this picture a subtle lilac scent and foliage of a beautiful bronzy-green, dense and glossy and you'll see why it's a must for your garden.

GENISTA RACEMOSA

The dry, sunny spots in your garden will become "scene stealers" when you plant this ornamental. Continuously, through Spring and Summer, its silky leaves and silver-tipped branches frame myriads of golden-yellow flowers. A relation of the colorful Spanish broom, but with the refinement to form a perfect dwarf plant.

GARDENIA MYSTERY

No garden is complete without this glamorous shrub. Its virgin white flowers bring you scented beauty on a big scale, for they often measure up to 5" across. Furthermore, they'll bloom for a greater period of time . . . linger longer in your home and will not fade. Because of a sturdy root system, this shrub will thrive in most any soil.

LIGUSTRUM TEXANUM

For a striking hedge or shrub border, nothing can equal this handsome plant. In the Spring glossy, camellia-like wax leaves form a perfect background for the immense lilac-like clusters of creamy-white flowers with a delicate fragrance. This hardy, drought resistant plant is very fast growing and thrives in most soils.

The 12 Best Shrubs for Planning Your New Garden or Replanting Your Old One

A group of leading horticulturists selected these shrubs to bring year-round, radiant beauty to your new or established garden! In the Spring and Summer, their numerous blooms will shower your grounds with color. In the Fall and Winter, you'll thrill to the sight of rich green foliage and bright red berries. Chosen with careful regard for size, uses and blooming period, these 12 pest and disease resistant shrubs will just about make up an entire planting list for your grounds. What's more, by following the diagram on the back of this folder, you can become your own landscape architect. Yes, whether you wish to do a complete planting job or add a bit of new loveliness to your present garden, you'll find these outstanding shrubs the happy answer to your problem. Come in and let us show them to you and surprise you with their modest cost.

COTONEASTER PARNEYI

The most popular of all cotoneasters, it will win your approval too, once you see its large, luxuriant, evergreen foliage studded with enormous clusters of brilliant red berries. Its arching branches make it excellent for screening purposes or as specimen shrubs. Grows rapidly in either sun or slight shade.

HYPERICUM PATULUM HENRYI

A regular "toughie" this shrub — one that cheerfully goes about its task of spreading beauty in spite of poor soils or blazing sunshine. Low, bushy and compact it is ideal for foundation planting or a casual unclipped hedge. During Spring and Summer it's ablaze with large golden-yellow blooms made more impressive by interesting sea green foliage.

ILEX CORNUTA BURFORDI

This holly produces tremendous displays of big, bright red berries far surpassing in beauty and interest the familiar English holly. The foliage is large, glossy, deep green and without thorns. Ideal for decorating your home during the Holidays. A very hardy plant, it grows well in either sun or shade.

PYRACANTHA ROSEDALE

Outstanding for its many uses as well as its loveliness, this shrub begins its beauty show in the Spring with long, arching sprays of dainty, ivory-white flowers that resemble delicate lace, highlighted by dark, rich green foliage. In the Fall and through the Winter, the branches are literally laden with large berries of the darkest red of any pyracantha. Train as an espalier — use as a specimen or group into a brilliant hedge.

AUCUBA JAPONICA VARIEGATA

Here's a plant to bring your patio the exotic beauty of the Tropics or provide refreshing shade for informal spots in your garden. Its jungle green, polished leaves are gigantic and shimmer as if they had been dusted with gold. A particularly hardy fellow, this interesting shrub takes hold quickly and grows up fast.

HYDRANGEA TROPHEE

Finest of the ever popular French Hybrids, Hydrangea Trophée will lend distinctive charm to your garden. Dwarf and compact in growth, this beauty boasts individual florets often an inch across, making massive flower heads almost a foot in diameter. The rich salmon-pink of these blooms contrasted with their lush foliage, paints a picture of true color harmony.
